

Paula E. Cullinan
Chief Financial Officer

Paula E. Cullinan has served as The Center for Autism's chief financial officer since 1988. In this role, she is responsible for and oversees the Center's operations in the areas of administration, information management, accounting and finance. Cullinan holds the office of secretary and treasurer and is a member of the organization's finance and strategic planning committees. Prior to her current position, she was the Center's office manager and a billing coordinator.

Presently pursuing a master's degree in business administration, Cullinan holds a bachelor's degree in accounting from St. Joseph's University in Philadelphia, and a certificate in executive administration from the University of Pennsylvania. She is treasurer of the Philadelphia Alliance and a member of the Philadelphia Council of Advocates. Cullinan is also actively involved in the Lansdowne Friends Meeting as chair of the Ministry and Counsel Committee. She currently resides in Lansdowne, Pa. with her husband and daughter.